Welcome Message

Welcome everyone to the International Conference on Siting Locally Unwanted Facilities, Challenges and Issues organized by the Centre for Environmental Policy and Resource Management, Department of Geography and Resource Management, The Chinese University of Hong Kong.

Welcome to our unique and beautiful campus. With about 7 million population dwelling on a total land territory of 1,104 sq km, CUHK occupies 0.1% of land area in Hong Kong. This may not be the urban Hong Kong that you are familiar with. But our unique physical setting and tranquil landscape have endowed us the good resources to organize important academic conferences for international scholars to meet, present and interact.

The theme of this conference is extremely relevant to the metropolis of Hong Kong. As Asia's world city, Hong Kong is famous for her high economic attainment, dynamic and vibrant urban lifestyle, fusion of western and Asian culture, mosaic of high density, high rise urban fabrics with serene country parks and scenic outer islands. To support her large population and all sorts of economic and social activities, it requires a wide range of locally unwanted facilities for energy and accessibility devices, waste treatment and management, health and correctional services provision. These facilities vary in scales with different dimensions of impact on the environment. Their NIMBY characteristic has inevitably provoked public debate, opposition and protest which often results in project delay, postponement and increase in project cost. Of equal importance is the notion of environmental justice, equity and place identity.

The Centre for Environmental Policy and Resource Management, under the leadership of Professor Lam Kin Che, is undertaking a public policy research on siting LULUs which aims at developing a conceptual framework and investigating the possible solutions for devising appropriate policy in these siting exercises. This conference runs parallel to the study. We sincerely hope that this conference can provide a platform for all participants to interact on their professional insights on this daunting problem commonly encountered in different parts of the world.

For those who travel to attend this conference, we are glad to say that this is the best season in visiting Hong Kong. Other than rigorous activities at the conference site, you must be able to find other attractions that suit your interest here in Hong Kong. For Hong Kongers, we do hope this conference can bring you new information, insight and network.

This conference cannot be successful without the contribution from our co-organizers, Chung-Hua Institution for Economic Research, Nankai University and National Taipei University. We are particularly grateful for the generosity of our sponsors including Henderson Land Development Company Limited, Hongkong Electric Holdings Limited, CLP Holdings Limited, The Hong Kong Institute of Environmental Impact Assessment, Chung Chi College and United College of The Chinese University of Hong Kong. The support from the Environmental Protection Department, Highways Department, Planning Department of the Hong Kong SAR Government, The Hong Kong Institution of Engineers, The Chartered Institution of Water and Environmental Management Hong Kong and Hong Kong Institute of Planners is deeply appreciated. Last but not the least, I must thank the organizing committee, in particular Miss Teresa Chung, our project coordinator, postgraduate and undergraduate students whose have contributed in making this conference a memorable event.

Keynote Speakers

Chang-tay Chiou, PhD in public policy analysis at the University of Pittsburgh and also PhD in political science at National Taiwan University, is professor at Department of Public Administration and Policy, National Taipei University. He was the former director of Research Center for Election and Public Opinion, National Taipei University; and former Dean of College of Hakka studies, National Central University. His specialization is environmental policy, disaster management, and public policy and management studies. Currently he is conducting a comparative study of NIMBY syndrome and facility siting between Taiwan, Hong Kong and Mainland China.

Bruce Mitchell, PhD is Professor of Geography and Associate Provost at the University of Waterloo. For over 35 years, his research has focused on integrated water resources management, with emphasis on policy, governance and implementation. More recently he has addressed environmental justice issues. He has been a Wei Lun Visiting Professor at the Chinese University of Hong Kong, is Honorary Professor at the Dalian University of Technology, and is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada.

Shaw, Daigee, Ph.D in Resource Policy, Economics and Management, University of Michigan (1985), is a Professor and President Chung-Hua Institution for Economic Research. Shaw was at one time Visiting Fellow, School of Forestry and Environmental Studies, Yale University, Fulbright Scholar, Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania and also Division Head, National S&T Center for Disaster Reduction, Socio-economic System Division. Shaw sits also on the editorial board of a number of scholarly journals and was awarded the Academic Award for Distinguished Scholarship, Ministry of Education, Taiwan

Howard Kunreuther, PhD is the Cecilia Yen Koo Professor of Decision Sciences and Public Policy at the Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania as well as serving as Co-Director of the Wharton Risk Management and Decision Processes Center. He has a long-standing interest in ways that society can better manage low probability-high consequence events as it relates to technological and natural hazards and has published extensively on the topic. He is a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS) and Distinguished Fellow of the Society for Risk Analysis, receiving the Society's Distinguished Achievement Award in 2001. Kunreuther has written or co-edited a number of books and papers including Catastrophe Modeling: A New Approach to Managing Risk (with Patricia Grossi) and Wharton on Making Decisions (with Stephen Hoch). He is a recipient of the Elizur Wright Award for the publication that makes the most significant contribution to the literature of insurance.

S Hayden Lesbirel, PhD is an Associate Professor of Political Science in the School of Arts and Social Sciences at James Cook University in Queensland, Australia. He specialises in the political economy of policy formulation and implementation, and has a particular interest in energy and environmental affairs and policy in Japan and in the Asia-Pacific. He is author of NIMBY Politics in Japan: Energy Siting and the Management of Environmental Conflict (Cornell University Press, 1998), and co-editor (with Daigee Shaw) of Managing Conflict in Facility Siting: An International Comparison, (Edward Elgar, 2005). He has contributed articles to Policy Sciences, Journal of Business Administration, Energy Policy, Pacific Affairs, Enerugii Keizai [Energy Economics], Electoral Studies, Asian Journal of Political Science, Australian Journal of Political Science and other journals.

Instructions for speakers and moderators

Presentations

Standard presentation facilities include overhead projector and computer using Microsoft Windows 2003, so PowerPoint projections will be available in the lecture theatre. For those speakers who have e-mailed your own PowerPoint files to our organizing committee, the file will be readily available for your presentation. You are also encouraged to bring with your PowerPoint file on a suitable storage device, such as USB driver or CD-ROM in case e-mail transmission is not successful. Alternatively, bring a set of overhead transparencies for presentation.

If you did not e-mail your PowerPoint file to us, you should bring and give us your PowerPoint file at the registration counter at least 3 hours before your presentation session. Otherwise, please see the conference assistant at least 15 minutes before the start of the session to upload your PowerPoint file ready for use on the lecture theatre computer.

Should non standard sources be used for your presentation (i.e. other than PowerPoint file, like the usage of a personal laptop), an early contact with the conference assistant is highly recommended in order to decide together the best action to be taken. Particularly in this case, a notification during the conference registration is an absolute priority.

Discussion Time

Moderators should follow the session time schedule closely in order to keep the conference in pace. Each paper should have 15 minutes and 3 minutes for discussion. If a speaker does not turn up, the moderator may use the time slot for discussion.

Language Style

English will be used as the official language throughout the whole conference except otherwise indicated. However, presenters and discussants should remember that for many in the audience, English will not be their mother tongue, so please speak reasonably slowly and clearly. It is a good idea to stick with the content of your visual presentation, so that the audience can follow your talk and “text”. It is also important to engage the audience in your presentation and avoid talking to the screen or to your notes.

Session Chair/Moderator

Please arrive at the venue 15 minutes before commencement of the session. Kindly adhere to the time schedule and alert speakers at appropriate times.

Conference Arrangement

Registration Counter

The registration desk is situated at the lobby of Esther Lee Building Ground floor) and will be opened at 8:10 a.m., 12th December 2007.
